

ACV P de Mestral (I) 1501 Partial copies of a terrier compiled by Guiliermus Berardi, 1488-1502, and of a terrier compiled by Jacobus de Bissingio, 1342-1349, for the Co-seigneurie of Aubonne, copied in 1642 by Abel Marquis and Jean François de Soubz le Crest.

This volume is a vidimus or formal copy prepared by the notaries Abel Marquis and Jean François de Soubz le Crest of two separate sources: first, reconnaissances for Lavigny, Lully, Lussy, and Etuey, originally compiled by Guiliermus Berardi “anno 1489”, and second, of parts of the “rouleau des Palehezieu” (=Palézieux; the sections copied are those for Lavigny, Lully, and Etuey) originally compiled by Jacobus de Bissingio in 1342-1343 (with a single addition in 1349), both of them as requested by André de Bonstetten, ballif of Morges, the request or “mandement” relating to the copying of these sources dated at Morges 07 dec 1642, included at the end of the each section. At some later date, indexes of toponyms (including lieux-dits) were added at the front of the each section. The whole volume has suffered damage to the outer edges of many pages, resulting in some losses. Each section has separate foliation in Arabic numerals, and the ACV has followed that foliation as part of its digitization project, adding a prefix A or B to the folio numbers.

The copy of the terrier of Berard or Berardi is based on ACV P de Mestral (I) 1507, but only for the sections concerning Lavigny, Lully, Lussy, and Etuey. The original, prepared by Mermetus Badelli, son-in-law of the commissaire Guiliermus Berardi after his death, is far more legible, and is to be preferred as the most reliable source.

The copy of the “rotulus” (French rouleau) or scroll of Jacobus de Bissingio is based on ACV P de Mestral (I) 1500, and its concluding section consisting of membranes xlii-xlvi, which had become separated, now catalogued as ACV Fh 69, but again, only for the sections concerning Lavigny, Lully, and Etuey. Only membranes i-vii and xvi-xvii were copied; in particular, the copy does not cover any of the membranes that were removed and forwarded to other parties, including “Monsieur de Pampigny” and possibly others.

The copies are not entirely faithful to the originals, but, given that the copies were made almost three centuries ago, the copy of sections of P de Mestral (I) 1500 should be useful for passages that are today too faded to read clearly. For the copy of P de Mestral (I) 1500, especially, many clear abbreviation signs in the original have been ignored, resulting, for example, in the transformation of the names Voucheret into Vouchet, Nantermus into Naucinus, etc. The copy of P de Mestral (I) 1507 is of much less use, as the original is in pristine condition in a very consistent script and with few abbreviations.

Cover: Copie vidimée des reconnoissances de Lavigny sur Berard A° 1489 et autres jusqu'à fol. 212, Bissingio (dont l'original est le rouleau des Palehezieu) commence apres ledict fol. 212v jusques à la fin. On the spine of the volume, Extraits de Bissinges et Berard à cause d'Aulbonne et Lavigny, 1342 et 1489, N° 32.

Introductory pages:

(Added at a later date: Nomina locorum du present livre de ce qui est riere Lavigni, an alphabetical index of toponyms.)

Original introductory page: En ce present livre sont contenues les recognoissances faictes par Guillierme Berard 148[9] et de Jacob de Bissingio commencées en 1342, le tout à cause de la seigneurie de Lavigny (added in very small script: vidimées par Soublecrest et Marquis).

Repertorio huius libri, et primo, Lavigny... (2½ folios, indexing only the first section).

First section: Copy of sections of the terrier P de Mestral (I) 1507 compiled by Guiliermus Berardi and his son-in-law Mermetus Badelli. Modern foliation by the ACV.
