

Archives cantonales vaudoises: Digitized Terriers Available on FamilySearch.org.

Prepared by John W. McCoy (RealMac@aol.com) September 25, 2025.

The terriers and related volumes in the collections of the Archives cantonales vaudoises (ACV) have been digitized in collaboration with the Genealogical Society of Utah, a project that took many years. Images from this project were shared with the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, and have been posted on the FamilySearch.org web site, also a project that took many years.

Most of the terriers are found in ACV section F, divided into subsections based on the district where each terrier is most appropriately housed. For example, section Fh contains the terriers related to the traditional district or “bailliage” of Aubonne, Fg contains the terriers for the district of Morges, etc. The descriptions of the terriers are most easily found in the on-line inventory of the ACV, called DAVEL, using the “Archive plan search” option to navigate to section F and then to the subsections. Other terriers are found in section A, and in several “fonds privés” (sections P and PP), etc. It is likely that not all of the terriers have been digitized, as some are too fragile to handle, and there may be some volumes that were digitized by the ACV but which have not been transmitted to the Family History Library or not posted on the FamilySearch.org web site.

During the course of the project at FamilySearch.org, the way the “image groups” were organized and labeled changed several times. There are now several possible ways to locate the “image groups”.

Initially, the image groups were not part of the FamilySearch “catalog”; they could only be located by entering the call number used by the ACV, with a hyphen, enclosed in quotes, in the Keyword field of the FamilySearch.org image search. In order to display the Keyword field, it may be necessary to select More Options. A search for the terrier ACV Fh 137 would be made like this, in the Keyword field: “fh-137”. The search will recover an image group where the “Volume” field contains Fh-137.

It is also possible to search the image groups by Place, starting with Switzerland and then selecting appropriate places within Switzerland: e.g., Vaud, and then possibly the cities associated with the individual districts. However, some image groups for the terriers are actually filed on FamilySearch.org under different, and sometimes inappropriate locations within Vaud, and some are also filed under Bern and other cantons. One large group is filed most incorrectly under Lausanne Township, Northampton, Pennsylvania, United States!

Another option on the image search page is Browse All Collections, adding a Filter for Switzerland. This search method shows the various high-level image collections for Switzerland, a long list in which it is possible to spot several “collections” containing the digitized terriers, notably Switzerland, Bern, Employment; Switzerland, Fribourg, Employment; Switzerland, Geneva, Employment; Switzerland, Neuchâtel, Employment; Switzerland, Valais, Employment; Switzerland, Vaud, Employment (the main terrier collection); Switzerland, Vaud, Others; Switzerland, Vaud, Properties; and Switzerland, Vaud, Terrier Records (this was the first group of images that FamilySearch.org posted from this project, containing only part of section Fc). It does not seem feasible to find the image groups misfiled under Lausanne Township, Northampton, Pennsylvania, United States using this method.

None of these methods will directly recover a large number of image groups that lack an appropriate “Volume” label! There are hundreds of image groups that currently lack a value in the “Volume” field, and there is no other useful information in the image group labels that would be helpful in locating a specific terrier.

More recently, all (?) of the digitized terriers have been added to the FamilySearch catalog, leading to the same image groups, but often showing very different information in the results list. So long as one remembers to add the hyphen, most of the image groups can now be found through the catalog search by entering the terrier’s designation from the ACV, but with a hyphen, and without quotes: fh-137. However, this search leads to a high-level entry, in this case for “Switzerland, Vaud, Bailliage d’Aubonne, terriers”. Clicking on this entry leads to a list of over 200 terriers, where the individual entry for “Terriers, Fh-137, 1506” can be found.

While the bulk of the terriers are thus organized by “bailliage” in the FamilySearch catalog, there are others that are not so easy to find. Also, there are many situations where the call number of the terrier in DAVEL is formatted differently in the FamilySearch catalog. The differences most often relate to the addition of hyphens, but the user will not always be able to guess how FamilySearch has set up the catalog entry.

Between the two different ways of searching – the image search and the catalog search – it is possible to find most of the terriers, but the exceptions are not obvious, and in fact, the user might be entirely unaware of their existence in the inventory of the ACV, because no complete list of the items included in the digitization project seems ever to have been published.

Therefore, all the entries in all of the “collections” and catalog entries that have been identified so far as containing digitized terriers from the ACV have been extracted, and each of the image groups that lacks an appropriate terrier label was opened to find the description image provided by the ACV that describes each terrier. The description image is usually, but not always, the second or third image in the image group. The description by the ACV uses a standard format that notes all the pertinent facts about the terrier: its labels, contents, condition, the number of folios, whether the volume contains an index (the index images are usually but not always placed at the end of the image group, even though the index itself is usually at the beginning of the physical volume), and other information. After editing and sorting, a table of the image group numbers and terrier labels has been produced, as shown below.

There are some gaps in the terrier numbers! For the most part, the gaps simply reflect the numbering system of the ACV. Some numbers were never used, others were used but the document has since been moved to some other part of the classification scheme of the ACV, and some volumes are lost. Numbers are not re-used, no matter how logical it might seem, in order to avoid confusion with old inventory numbers written on documents, published citations of archival materials, etc. The inventory of section F in the DAVEL database will generally give the details, and more information may be found in the PDF files attached to the high-level descriptions of the subsections (such as Fh or Fg) in DAVEL.

One terrier was found by searching for adjacent image group numbers. The terrier Fg 25, it turns out, lacks an associated place name entirely! This could be the explanation for other terriers that have not been located on the FamilySearch.org web site using the image group search.

The high-level entries for the terriers in the FamilySearch catalog that have been identified so far are listed here. They are most easily found by searching the catalog for Author: Archives cantonales vaudoises. Once the image group number is known, the images themselves can be accessed by searching on the image group number using either the image group search or the catalog search on FamilySearch.org. See below for the complete table of image group numbers.
