What is that name? Opinions of the historians are split between Bonnet and Bovet, for the family that gave rise to Perroneta, the mother of the famous Peter Falck of Fribourg. In most documents, it is written in such a way that it could be read as Bouet, Bonet, or Bovet.

*The letters u, n, and v are frequently indistinguishable in the script of the time. On occasion, the notary used a distinct form of the v in some words, with the result that we know the name that most often looks like Bouat is actually Bovat. But we never found the clear v in any rendition of the problem “Bonnet/Bovet” family. Instead, we found numerous examples in the present register where apparently the same Nicodus had his name spelled with a long stroke over approximately the first several letters, similar to this: Bōnet. This could be interpreted either as a sign that the third letter is an n and it should be doubled (Bonnet), or as an arbitrary abbreviation sign indicating omitted letters, perhaps for the name Bovonet.*

*Another line of reasoning is that we find many family names in the Pays de Vaud that are similar to Bovet, but almost no clear evidence for Bonet, and the only modern Bonnet families seem to be later arrivals from France. Also, there is at least one later terrier (ACV Fm 4bis, from about 1570) that definitely uses the spelling Bonnet for Perroneta’s family – but by that time, the family was already extinct. The problem now seems to be resolved in favor of Bonnet or Bonet, because of two discoveries. First, this notary most often added a stroke over the first several letters, and does not mention the Bovonet family at all, suggesting that he really did mean Bonnet. Second, this notary also mentions a toponym or “lieu-dit” in the territory of Payerne that was probably associated with this family, Wa Bonnet (again written Bōnet), in a context where there seems no possibility of a more elaborate abbreviation.*

The two registers of Petrus de Trevaul are remarkable enough for the details they provide about families from Payerne, Fribourg, etc. in the early 15th Century, but there is another treasure attached at fol. 55v in the second register: a very legible agreement in French, dated 1417. It is quite unusual to find documents in French from such an early date in the Pays de Vaud.

Genealogical information from entries marked M (marriages), A (assignaux), T (testaments, or P (partages) have been added to the Dutoit database at www.rootsweb.com/~chevaud/dutoit.

Cover appears to be lost, but binding apparently contained old papers glued together, the parts visible on the microfilm jumbled and only partly legible. The foliation is irregular, each number appears on the reverse, rather than on the front of the sheet. No number is visible on either side of the first sheet. The second sheet is here considered fol. 2, and the back of this sheet, bearing the numeral ii, is considered fol. 2v, etc.

Note partage of the heirs of Rodulphus Mayor of Lutry on fols. 129-145v, signed by Girardus Croserens and Petrus de Trevaul, possibly missing 8 folios, as the folio numbered 131 is followed by fol. 140, but without an obvious break in the text, dated 16 jan 1420.
