The inventory of the ACV gives dates 1342, 1377, 1379, and 1442 for this volume, indicating it was compiled for Noble Jean (IV), coseigneur d'Aubonne, Noble Antoine, coseigneur d'Aubonne, et Nobles Henri et Marguerite de Montricher, à cause du fief dit de Rochefort et la coseigneurie d'Aubonne. What we find in the text is somewhat different.

There are several sections, suggesting that a number of different documents were simply bound together. If there is any explicit mention of the fief dit de Rochefort, we did not find it. The ACV has designated these sections as follows (with a summary of our analysis of each section, in italics) :

Section A, beginning with fol. 68 (pencil ? notation at the top of the first folio, N° 5), ending on fol. 71v. Contains several reconnaissances in favor of Nobilis Henricus dominus Montisrecherii et Margareta eius consor condomini Albone and their successors in the Château of Aubonne, dating from 1379. The reconnaissances appear to be copies, not signed, and with minor omissions replaced by « etc. » The name of the commissaire is found on fol. 71, but it is abbreviated and not very clear, possibly Petrus Crocti, and the preceding reconnaissances are not in the same hand or ink. Some of the text is lined out and there are signs of editing, as if the text was intended to be used in the preparation of another document. A Petrus Crocti is mentioned in Fh 101 as the person in charge of copying certain documents held at Chambrier for the Seigneur of Aubonne in 1426. The material that he copied included an extract by Johannes de Montrichier of a terrier by Jacobus de Bissingio – these names figure in Fh 107 as well, suggesting that a comparison of these volumes might prove informative.

Section B, beginning with an incomplete répertoire (two folios of the répertoire remain, but the first folio of the répertoire is lost; also, the répertoire ends prematurely with entries for fol.27), then continuing with fols. 1-39v, of which fols. 32v-39v are blank. (Apud Albonam: Per Jacobum de Bissingio clerici diocesis Gebennis et anno domini m^o ccc xlii [1342] recepte fuerunt presentes recogniciones.) These appear to be extracts from a volume by Jacobus Rodolphus de Bissingio, all apparently in 1342. The volume by de Bissingio may be, or may be related to Fh 69, a fragment ? of a “rotulus” or scroll, compiled about 1344 for Noble Jean (IV), co-seigneur d'Aubonne, now too fragile and damaged to be examined. See below for mentions of a “rotulus” in other sections of Fh 107. Even more likely, there is a rotulus ACV P de Mestral I 1500, clearly identified on the first membrane as the work of Jacobus de Bissingio, for Johannes condominus de Albona, dated in 1342, and including a later notation that at least some of it had been copied by Berard. However, what is now in section B does not match anything in P de Mestral I 1500.

Section C, beginning with a répertoire (three folios, Repertorium extenarum antiquarum per Johannem Monrichier receptarum), then continuing with fols. 1-35v (Johannes Monrichier recepti). The first item is dated in 1377, in favor of Anthonius, condominus Albone, in his own name. Note that in Section E of this terrier, some of the reconnaissances are in favor of the same Anthonius, but under the guardianship of his mother, in 1370. By 1377, he had attained the age of majority. As is the case with the other sections, these are brief abstracts or paraphrases. The original terrier of Johannes de Montricher may have been Fh 113, compiled in 1377 for Noble Antoine, co-seigneur d'Aubonne, not yet examined. The repertorium at the beginning of Section F indexes later tenants listed in the margins of Section C.

Section D, beginning with a répertoire (one folio), then continuing with fols. 1-26v. This section is a continuation of Section A. The répertoire bears the folio number 72 (lxxii) centered in the top margin, and the entries in the répertoire are interrupted by a short entry that may belong with Section A, as explained below. Beginning on the next folio, there are two sets of folio numbers. The original set is probably the one centered in the top margin, folios 1-18, then a folio with 19 lined out and replaced by another 18, then folios 19-24, followed by a folio number 16 lined out, and then a folio 15. The second set of folio numbers was probably added later, on the left side of the top margin, running from 73 to 99. Thus, the second set of folio numbers continues the foliation from Section A, but the folio numbers are placed differently. Nevertheless, the dates in this section are in 1379, plausibly continuing the dates from Section A. The items in this section are in favor of "dictorum nobilium conjugum" Henricus de Montricher and his wife Margareta, daughter and heir of Anthonius, co-seigneur d'Aubonne, and, as in the other sections, they are unsigned abstracts or paraphrases of the originals, now apparently lost. From the placement of the two sets of folio numbers, we surmise that Section D was originally a separate document (or two documents, since the last two folios duplicate the numbers 15 and 16), later adapted and placed after what is now Section A, but then rearranged by the interpolation of sections B and C.

Section E, beginning with a répertoire (one folio plus a blank folio), then continuing with fols. 100-140, first in favor of Humbertus, co-seigneur of Aubonne, dating from 1369-1370, and then a group of reconnaissances compiled in favor of Anthonius, co-seigneur d'Aubonne, from 1370. In effect, two new folios were inserted between fols. 99 and 100 to provide a répertoire for fols. 100-140. However, the contents are again extracts or paraphrases derived from earlier sources. Fols. 100-124 concern Humbertus, fol. 124v-140 concern his brother Anthonius. There is no indication of the name of the commissaire for fols. 100-124. Fols. 124v-140 are abstracted from reconnaissances compiled by Petrus d'Eclepens, Fh 110 (the text in Fh 110 is unsigned, but apparently complete).

Section F, beginning with a repertorium (nine folios), then continuing with nine unnumbered folios (or else the foliation was cut off when the volume was bound), although the associated repertorium has folio numbers as high as 36. Clearly the repertorium is not related to the pages that follow it. In fact, some of the entries mention a "rotulus" or scroll, as well as "papers". Eventually, we discovered that this repertorium, in part, indexes names of later tenants found in the margins of Section C! The remainder of Section F appears to consist of notations concerning petitions for “assignation”, by which properties were “assigned” to secure debts, and other legal procedures. The dates appear to be in 1438, and the notations suggest that these are actions before a court (note mentions of a “Locumtenens” or Lieutenant and the city council of Aubonne). While it is clear that some text has been lost at the tops of the pages by trimming for binding, possibly including folio numbers, we were unable to find any correspondence between the répertoire and the “main” pages in this section.

We can now attempt to summarize the genesis of Fh 107. All of it was copied or abstracted from other sources. Sections A, D, and E appear to form a continuous sequence, but Section D originally stood alone and was renumbered when it was combined with Section A, which had been removed from some other volume. Fol. 72 from Section A, being nearly blank, was converted to serve as a répertoire for Section D. Later, the items that now form Section E (copied from Fh 110 and another, unknown source) were added after Section D, continuing with the next folio number. Two additional folios were then inserted to form provide a répertoire for Section E. Finally, Sections B, C, and F were added, apparently also from diverse sources, and with no attempt to continue the foliation of the earlier sections. The entire volume shows signs of use over an extended period, in the form of marginal notations indicating later tenants and sometimes other information.

[Section A]

68 Confessio et recognicio Johonodi de Furno filii quondam Thome de Furno de Sancto Georgio commorantis apud Marthereys, 11 jul 1379, owes cense to Nobilis Henricus dominus Montisrecherii et Margareta eius consor condomini Albone.

69v (Brief note inserted here : Glaudius Compoz commorans apud Martere, 07 feb, no year given, and an even later addition in the margin adds “ex novo abbergamento” to this note.)

69v Humbertus de Marthereys ~~filius Girardi de Laysour~~ ? suo et Hudriodi eius nepotis nominibus, ~~11~~ 13 jul 1379, ex novo accensamento patri ipsius confitentis quondam facto per quondam Nobilem Anthonium condominium Albone.

71 Venerabilis Dompnus Petri Bessocti prior monasterii Bonimontis ordinis Cistercensis, 19 jul 1379, based on a previous reconnaissance recorded 02 mar 1335 by Roletus Martini.

[Section B]

(The first folio of the répertoire is lost, the first extant entry is for Roleta de Troclens, corresponding to fol. 14. The répertoire ends with entries for fol. 27.)

1 Apud Albonam: Per Jacobum de Bissingio clerici diocesis Gebennis et anno domini 1342 recepte fuerunt presentes recogniciones. The text consists of brief abstracts or paraphrases indicating allegiance to Dominus Johannes, presumably Jean (IV), co-seigneur d'Aubonne.

32 Remondus filus Hugoneti de Monthero et Johannetus filius Stephani filii dicti Hugoneti ? quondam.

(Fols. 32v-37v are blank.)

38 (Possibly lined out, the remainder of this page is blank.) Sequuntur repertorium extentarum seu recognicionum de rotullo. (In the context of the rest of this volume, we assume “rotullo” refers to a “rotulus” or scroll, not to the town of Rolle. But the planned repertorium for the contents of this scroll was never added.)

38v Scribbled notations, not easy to read:

Die Jovis festi Sancti Luce anno lix (the date should be 18 oct 1459, the only plausible year in which the Feast of St. Luke falls on a Thursday) nobilis G. Marchiant ? judex assignavit ? ad instancia ? commissarii Johannem Monrichier recognoscivit ? etc. ad diem Lunem post ? dictum festum hora meridiana presentibus ? Johanne Monrichier et Jacobo Mistralis domicello testibus. Qua die facta petitione usque ad lx libri pro ... etc. ... allegavit ... Johannem de Novocastro militem tanquam bona possidentem domine Anthonie eius quondam consortem filie quondam domini Ludovici de Beria militis et pro alias Johannem Disy et Petrum ? Boulat etc. ... presentibus Johanne de Mont domicello et Petro Gos testibus. (These notations bear some resemblance to those in Section F.)

[Section C]

(Répertoire says Repertorium extentarum antiquarum, then in a different ink, per Johannem Monrichier receptarum. The entries appear to correspond with the contents of the pages that follow the répertoire. Some of the items specify allegiance to Anthonius, co-seigneur d'Aubonne.) (Notations in the margin correspond, more or less, to most of the entries in the repertorium designated as Section F, below. However, the notations are sometimes extremely faded, lost in the binding or trimmed off during binding, or so heavily edited that it is not possible to determine the correct reading. Among other issues, we strongly suspect that more annotations were added to Section C after the index in Section F was completed.)

[Section D]

72 (The folio clearly bears the number lxxii)

72 Repertorium (the first item is Perrodus Gazel, folio 1, which corresponds to the contents of this section.)

(In the middle of the répertoire on fol. 72, there is an entry, lined out, that must predate the répertoire itself. Evidently this folio was mostly blank and was reused to record the contents of the section that follows. The extraneous item is lined out, but it concerns Aymonetus Pollet de Alamant nomine Perronete uxoris sue filie quondam Johannis Cavenet, with the date 25 may, but no year given, presentibus Petro Mochet domicello et Petro Porchon testibus... From the folio number, we speculate that this is the folio that previously followed fol. 71v, in Section A. The next folio bears the number lxxiii.)

1 ~~Montherot~~ (This folio also bears the number lxxiii. The succeeding folios, 2-24, 45, and 16, also bear the same double foliation, 74-99. Section E, after its répertoire, begins on fol. 100. From these observations, we can guess something of the genesis of this terrier, such that Sections A, D, and E originally formed one continuous sequence, now interrupted by their respective répertoires and by Sections B and C.)

1 (73) (These reconnaissances apparently lined out?) Perrodus Gazel burgensis Albone, ~~25-sep~~ 02 may [1379?], allegiance to “dictorum nobilium conjugum” (see Section A), witnesses Jaquetus Fabri and Jaquetus Bastardi.

- 17v (89v) Jaquetus Reynaudi burgensis Albone, 07 jul [1379 ?].
- 18 (90) Stephanus de Lavignier domicellus, 09 jul [1379 ?].
- 18v (90v) Stephanus et Johannes Marchiant fratres burgenses Albone domicelli, 09 jul [1379 ?].
- (At this point, the foliation is even more irregular. Fol. 18v/90v is followed by a folio bearing three numerals: 91, ~~19~~ lined out, and 18! The second folio “18” is here designated 18b.)
- ~~19v~~ 18bv (91v) Georgius Marchiant domicellus burgensis Albone, 09 jul [1379 ?].
- 19 (92) Dompnus Guilliernus de Cletis ? presbiter rector hospitalis Albone nomine dicte hospitalis, 07 jul [1379 ?].

16v (99v) Quere res et possessiones infrascriptas, three more properties listed in the same way as those on fol. 98, again with no further explanation.

[Section E]

Répertoire labeled Lavignyer, begins with Agneta relictæ Perreti de Villa Nova on fol. 100. The répertoire, on both sides of one folio, continues with Estuey, Reveroulaz, Vaux, Ballens, and Apples. It is followed by a blank folio. The whole section is heavily annotated, including many references to a “rotulus” or scroll.

100 Apud Lavignye (in a different ink, but similar script, apparently: Anno domini m^o ccclxix^{mo} [1369]. The first reconnaissance, below, specifies allegiance to Nobilis Humbertus. In the context of the rest of this volume, we assumed this person should be Humbertus Alamandi, Seigneur d’Aubonne from about 1323 until 1353. Could the year have been incorrectly written? However, the reconnaissances continue into 1370, clearly written, on fol. 119. This mystery is clarified on fol. 123v, where we find that Humbertus is the son of the late Johannes, co-seigneur d’Aubonne. This is Humbert (II), son of Jean (IV), coseigneur d’Aubonne, and Marguerite d’Oron. His testament was dated at Lavignier in 1377, and there is no indication that he married. He was succeeded by his younger brother Antoine.)

100 Agneta relicta Perreti de Villa Nova morans apud Lavignye et Roletus dictorum conjugum filius confessi sunt se esse velle et debere esse homines ligii dicti Nobilis Humberti et se tenere ab ipso Humberto...

Danivier eius matris tanquam tutrix et tutorio nomine dicti Anthonii, videlicet anno domini millesimo ccc sexagesimo decimo mensis novembris* (November, 1370). (The content and script for this group of reconnaissances appears identical with the section for Lavignier, even though the properties are subject to Anthonius, brother of Humbertus. It should be remembered that the entire contents of this volume appear to be extracts of other documents, so it does not follow that Petrus d'Ecleppens was also the commissaire for the rest of Section E.)

124v Julianus de la Fontanaz filius quondam Vuilliermi Guilliet de Riviroula, 18 nov 1370.

126 Marmetus dictus de la Fontannaz aliter dictus Vaulet ? , same day ? (There is a reference mark ✕ after this item, which corresponds to three more items on fol. 128.)

[Section F]

The repertorium consists of 9 folios, but it does not relate at all to the “text” pages that were considered part of Section F by the ACV. Eventually, we discovered that this repertorium is, at least in part, an index to Section C, above, for the later tenants, or at least some of them, noted in the margins there! However, both this repertorium and the marginal notations they reference are often heavily edited or illegible, so it has not been possible to make a detailed comparison of the two sections.

The repertorium also contains some references to items in a “rotulus” or scroll. These citations do not seem to be found in the present volume.

If there is any relationship between the unnumbered folios at the end of Section F and the rest of this volume, we have been unable to discover it. However, based on the dates, all in 1438, it appears that folio [3] belongs after folio [9]. It is not clear whether folio [1] or folio [2] belong in the same sequence, or whether one or both of these folios are perhaps from some other source.
