Rotulus consisting of 9 membranes (not 8, as stated in the inventory of the ACV), apparently complete, concerning Aubonne, Bougy-St.Martin, and Trévelin. Outside of the rotulus has various notations, most prominently N°. 238^{2°}, signifying that it was once part of the Inventaire Blanc, layette 290. The script is neat and clear, each reconnaissance beginning with the large parape of the commissaire. The membranes are numbered in the upper left in Roman numerals, and there is a separate, modern numbering in the right margin of what might be called views, 1-13, not alligned with the seams of the rotulus, in pencil, with Arabic numerals. The older numbering is shown here.

While the censiers are apparently subjects of Guiliermus de la Balma, the text notes that the properties are subject to the Chapter of the Cathedral of Geneva. It is possible that additional early records of the Chapter may exist in the archives of Geneva.
