There is no title page, but what appears to be the flyleaf shows, at the top, the paper partly worn away, Secundus Liber Lictarum... , followed by the beginnings of a rough repertorium, with only a few folio numbers filled in (“Et in isto libero continentur villagia sequencia, primo, Bussy – tercio folio huius libri”), but in the right margin of this page, Quartus Liber. In effect, this is part of a multi-volume inventory or digest of the documents in possession of the hospital at some point in the 15th or possibly the early 16th Century, establishing the right and title to various rents and properties. It was apparently intended as the second volume of a set, but this set was later treated as a continuation of a previous set of two volumes, so it was at once the second and the fourth volume.

The foliation shows a similar ambiguity. The first folio after the presumed flyleaf recounts a donation of a chapel to be constructed in Syens in honor of Saint Donatus, dated 26 oct 1397, recorded by Johannes Serracem, the original of which is noted to be in a wooden case with other letters pertaining to the hospital. This folio is not numbered (but Quartus Liber appears at the top); however, the ACV has designated this as folio 1. The second folio, which appears to be much older (more faded, the script earlier and well ornamented, and consistent with the pages that follow, a much more formal arrangement), bears the original folio number 258 (ii^Clviii), and the individual items bear sequence numbers in the left margin, beginning with the format B M prima, later simplified to M followed by a sequence number in Roman numerals, ending with “pro copia” and the signature and paraphe of Uldriodus Guilly. (The M turns out to belong to a sequence of bundles of one hundred documents each, as described below, fol. 341.) At the bottom of this folio (originally 258) there is another folio number in the lower left corner, i (i.e., 1). In the center of the lower margin of the same folio, in pencil, is the recent ACV folio number 2. The three foliation sequences become more discrepant with the accumulation of numbering errors. For example, fol. 272 in the original sequence is unnumbered in the second foliation sequence, but the sequence resumes on the next folio. Then, at fol. 276, the second folio number xvii is repeated. Later, the second folio number xxxi is also repeated. We elected to follow the original foliation, beginning with folio 258.

In fact, the preceding volume (of which Fn 310 is the Secundus Liber) is clearly the one now catalogued as Fn 309, at the end of which, on fol. 241, we find a pencil notation dated July, 1939, in the hand of R. C. (Raoul Campiche) : “Les folios 242 à 257 étant en blanc, et à demi pourris, n’ont pas été conservés.” The repertoire of Fn 309 was too far gone to conserve as well, and the first part of it, 7 folios in all, was reconstructed by the ACV by extracting the required information from the text (including dates), with the (modern) title, Répertoire des Tomes III et IV. This section of Fn 309 is followed by the remaining 9 folios of the original repertorium, the contents of which clearly show that Fn 309 and Fn 310 form one continuous sequence. Fn 307 and Fn 308 form a similar sequence, the repertorium in Fn 307, and the foliation continuing from Fn 307 into Fn 308. Thus, the repertorium in Fn 309 is the key to locating records in Fn 310, but we have extracted Fn 310 directly, as the entries in the Fn 309 repertorium are sometimes difficult to read.

The material that had been organized by hundreds into bundles ends with the item on fol. 424. From fols. 426 to the end, fol. 481v, the material seems to consist of newer items that were not yet organized in that way, grouped by the notary who recorded them. Further analysis of Fn 307-310 might reveal more about the organization of the archives of the hospital.

Flyleaf 1 Secundus Liber Licterarum ... Et in isto libero continentur villagia sequencia, primo, Bussy – tercio folio huius libri... This heading is followed by a rough list of villages and also some individuals, for the most part lacking folio numbers. In the right margin, Quartus Liber. The verso of this folio is blank.

Flyleaf 2 Evidently a later insertion (but earlier than the rough repertorium on Flyleaf 1), foundation of the chapel of Sanctus Donatus, 26 oct 1397, Dominus Jacobus Cossonay curatus parrochialis ecclesie de Siens, accepts a donation by Anthonius Bruyvaul clericus de Melduno (he was the commissaire for a number of terriers) and others who may wish to join him, to endow the chapel, near the farm ou Pollant at the discretion of the said Anthonius, with the (copied ?) signature of Johannes Sarracem, with a notation in the same hand, that the original document is in a wooden box with others in favor of the hospital. The verso of this folio is also blank.

258 (Second foliation sequence, in the bottom left corner, begins here, i. However, if we follow the list on Flyleaf 1, this is indeed the “third folio”, where the section for Bussy begins, and this is also, for the purposes of the ACV, fol. 2. Therefore, this folio is at once, 258, i, ACV 2, and “third folio”. We find it most reasonable to follow the original foliation.) Lictere de Bussy

(Fol. 467v apparently not photographed, fol. 467 shows significant damage and may have been fixed to a supporting sheet during a prior restoration, and not separated for photography. The repertorium in Fn 309 is no help at this point, it ends with the items for fol. 424, above, supporting our observation that the items after that point in Fn 310 were added later, after the creation of the repertorium.)

Nobiliem Guidonem Cerjat et Petrum Vionet de Melduno, datum 06 mar 1455. (The testament of Jaquetus Quoquerel, said to be excessively prolix, seems not to have survived in the AC Moudon. However, an “assignacio dotis” for his wife Johanneta has survived, in the amount of 2000 livres de Lausanne, an astounding sum, dated 22 mar 1442, AC Moudon, M 58, 1432. Who was she? The testament of Marguerita, the first ? wife of Jaquetus Quoquerel, is mentioned in Fn 309, fol. 59v, I lxi, and the original is AC Moudon, M 58, 989, 23 mar 1409. We found no other mention of Johanneta.)
